• Identification cards
• Document or passport photography

Special Treatment
The preferred temperature range for processing Viva Color film is between 70-90°F (21-32°C) with the ideal temperature being 85°F (29°C).

Reciprocity Performance
The reciprocity characteristics of the film cause a color shift towards blue-cyan when the exposure time is increased and toward the red-yellow when the exposure time is decreased. The film is balanced for average daylight (5500°K) at 1/125 of a second (as well as for most electronic flash units). Recommended filtration at other exposure times and with other illuminants is indicated on information packaged with the film.
